SPAIN TO SEND SHIP

It is understood there tonight that the Spanish government is entirely agreeable to the suggestion that the governor of the Azores dispatch a ship to islands. In that event it is also pointed out that it would be entirely feasible for the intrepid young woman with the over-powering desire to the first of her sex to fly across the big pond to hire or buy a Spanish plane on the Azores and complete the journey now more than half done.

CLAY-GLOW CO. MAY APPEAL IN CONTRACT SUIT

Counter Claim of Local Firm Reduces $727 Judgment $510

Judgment of $217 was yesterday awarded Ernest Richardson and the Clay-glow Tile Company against the California Art Tile company, Hislop and Meyers, W. L. Hislop, L. J. Hislop and C. E. Cummings, all of Richmond, in the suit brought by the former asking for $590,000 damages. The suit was heard in the court of Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie in Martinez.

Judgment of $727 was awarded the plaintiffs but the defendants had a counter claim of $510 against the former, reducing the amount to $217. The plaintiffs must bear their own costs of the case.

Hiram Jacobs attorney for the California Art Tile Company and T. H. DeLap, associated with him in the case were attorneys for the defense.

It is alleged in the complaint that the defendants violated sales contracts and had not paid commissions on products sold. In addition to the $590,000, the plaintiff asked a court order compelling the defendants to turn over certain seals, designs and models used in the manufacture of the products.

Richardson, sole owner of the Clay-glow concern, alleged that he (Continued on Page 8)

3 Inquests Held In C. C. Deaths

Three inquests were held last night by Coroner Aubrey Wilson. The jury found that John Green, 69, a native of New York, came to his death at Lafayette, October 12 as a result of heart trouble and that William Johnson, 63, a native of Texas, came to his death from natural causes due to a tumor of the left lung. Johnson died in Walnut Creek October 8. Both inquests were held in Walnut Creek.

Third degree burns were given as the cause of death of Mrs. Martha Azevedo, a native of Germany, who passed away at the county hospital in Martinez on October 6. The jury held that death was accidental. Mrs. Azevedo sustained burns when her clothing became ignited while attempting to light a fire after pouring gasoline in a stove. She resided in Pittsburg.

Two inquests will be held in Wilson and Kratzer chapel here tomorrow afternoon for Frank Muzzi, believed to have committed suicide while mentally deranged, and for Harry Carter Conser who dropped dead, presumably of heart trouble, several days ago.

Interest Compounded While Lions, Barkers Plan Game

The Lions are roaring again. This time they are after the Barkers. Bob Smith, manager of the Richmond Lions, entered the Mechanics bank one day last week and told George Thornton what a team he had, if only they could get someone to play against. Thornton immediately threw down the gauntlet and set next Tuesday at 7 o'clock as the time of the fracas.

Then Bob went to another window in the bank and got to talking with Stanley McDonald. He also challenged the Lions to a game. Now Bob is puzzled. He doesn't know whether his team will play one or two teams of the Barkers. Not that he's worried. He said last night that even if with them he'd pry them all loose from their small change and that the only way they ever won was to him yesterday and told of their determination to "do the lions."

Methods Of Combating Fire In Burning Building Told

Not everyone has the unfortunate experience of being trapped in a burning building or having his clothes ignited. Yet, nevertheless, there is always the possibility that this grave danger may arise. Every citizen should know what to do to protect himself in case of fire. In connection with Fire Prevention Week now being observed throughout the nation, Fire Chief W. P. Cooper has issued the following practical suggestions on the subject:

"Whenever you go into a large building or auditorium or take a room in a hotel you should become acquainted with the location of the fire exits as soon as possible. Since many lives are lost due to ignorance of proper methods of getting out of a building quickly, it is advisable that everyone be prepared with the information in advance.

"If you happen to be in such a place when a fire occurs, keep from getting excited and use your best efforts to prevent panic. It has always been found that a building can be emptied much more quickly if the occupants leave it in an orderly manner. Frequently, fires have brought disaster, not from the flames, but because of panic. "If your clothes catch on fire, never attempt to run. Your movement simply fans the flames. The quickest and best method of extinguishing burning clothing is to roll the wearer in a rug or blanket, or any other heavy material. Care should be used to extinguish the flames around the face and head as soon as possible to prevent the wearer from inhaling the flames. "If you are unfortunate enough to be caught in a burning building, remember that smoke and flames travel more quickly when there is a draft. It pays to think a moment of the results before throwing open windows and doors. A door opened at the wrong moment may cause smoke to rush into the room, overcoming the occupants or making their escape impossible. When leaving a burning room close the door. This will retard the spread of flames. "It is important to remember that it is natural for smoke to rise. There is always, therefore, less smoke near the floor; and in a burning room you will be safest if you keep your head as low as possible. The best method of leaving a room full of smoke is by crawling. "In case of emergency a rope often can be quickly made out of best sheets. It is important to remember, however, to tear the sheets in strips before tying them. In this manner one or two sheets will produce a rope of considerable length."

FIRE DIRECTED AT "CONDUCT" OF PATROLMAN

Charges Said To Arise Over Alleged Attempt To Eject Citizens

Rumors are current that charges of conduct unbecoming an officer may be filed against Patrolman Wesley Zimmerman, son of Police and Fire Commissioner Charles Zimmerman of El Cerrito, at the next meeting of the El Cerrito council, Monday night. The charges are the outcome of disturbances during the stormy scenes at the last meeting of the council when charges were heard against Zimmerman. A. H. Byrd of the fire department, Byrd was ousted by the council on charges brought by Fire Chief W. A. Hinds.

TWO TO ACT: REPORT

C. Kaufman of 219 Kearney street and Henry B. Faria, of 225 Liberty street, El Cerrito are the two who may bring the charges, according to Councilman Philip A. Lee who said that the two came to him yesterday and told of their determination to "do the lions."

Councilman Lee said he had no interest in the affair and was not concerned about the charges.

The contemplated charges of conduct unbecoming an officer may be filed against the young man charged with the shooting of a woman at the hearing of the El Cerrito council, Monday night.

RESULT OF MURDER HEARING

A disturbance in the courtroom during the hearing of the charges against a man who was charged with the shooting of a woman, resulted in the hearing being postponed. The two spectators are said to have objected to the manner in which Zimmerman conducted himself. As one part of the disturbance, the patrolman and one of the spectators are said to have come near to fighting.

THE RETURN TO WASHINGTON

The east, including the hard-boiled capital city, has been stirred to emulation by reason of the character of the reception which the west gave the president during his stay in that region. The east in the past has always been inclined to assume the attitude that a president was only a president—important, but not important enough to get excited about. As a result, the usual pose in Washington has been ignoring or paying most indifferent attention to the comings and goings of the chief executive. Washingtonians have always been willing to take their country cousins to the spectacle, but held themselves rigidly, if not superciliously aloof.

The west has taught the east a lesson. The fineness, sincerity, decency and spontaneity of the reception which it gave the president during his stay, has punctured the self-esteem of the Washingtonians, native and proxy, and the people of the eastern territory as a whole. The east has begun to solemnly weigh itself whether it has not been overlooking a bet in its past indifference because it also knows the ignoring of the chief executive was not a mark of respect but because the easterners felt that they were "some punks" themselves, even if he happened to be a president.

In no other way can one explain the fact that indifferent Washington, which virtually ignored his departures and returns last summer and the year before to and from the Adirondacks and the eastern seaboard, turned out en masse the other night both at the station and along the right of way to the White House, and almost worked itself up to the point of cheering the chief executive.

Since his return, it has been noted that the crowds which gather around the White House have largely augmented in size and in enthusiasm. Once again it would seem as if the west had taught the east a lesson of respect, yes and of patriotism.

Posterity's picture of this age will depend partly on whether the archaeologist digs up a book by Sinclair Lewis or one by Gene Stratton Porter.—Detroit News.

How To Earn Money!

I have taken a course in millinery, am clever at designing, and can do all kinds of fancy needlework. I had thought of opening up a little millinery shop in my own apartment, but I have very little capital and do not wish to ask for credit. If I could only start in a small way I would be happy. What do you advise?
Tessie D.

Had you thought of starting off with a few crocheted hats. I understand they are going to be very smart this fall and winter. They are easy to make and the materials are not expensive. The prettiest are crocheted of chenille and trimmed variously with amara bands, embroideries, self-motifs and decorative pins. The smartest types are the severe but chic little helmets, the French aviation cap, and the ripple brim model with crushable crown. These are merely suggestions for you to work on.

I am a school girl and would like to earn money by staying in evenings with children, but I do not know what to charge. I am taking a course in practical nursing in addition to my regular studies, but my evenings are free.

The average charge of such service is 35 to 50 cents an hour. If you have neighbors who have children, and no maid, call on them and explain your plan. They in turn, will probably give you the names of others.

My son who is crippled, is planning to sell used clothing on commission. We live in a good sized town where there are many people who cannot afford the newest styles but are willing to pay small sums for used clothing. What commission should be charged; also how should the clothing be priced?

The usual commission is 10 percent, and the price depends altogether on the condition of the garment. About one-third of the original price is the usual charge—often less.

Vigorous Health

I should like to know why you recommend raw foods so much. Are they not hard to digest and would one lose weight on such a diet?
M. ALBERT

I recommend raw foods for a number of reasons. First, they contain all the mineral elements and vitamins which are so important to health and for which most people are starving. Second, they demand thorough mastication, which is necessary to good digestion. Third, they are less likely to ferment or putrefy. Fourth, one is not likely to overeat on them. Raw foods are not difficult to digest and on general diet there will be no loss of weight, as the raw foods contain more nourishment pound for pound than cooked foods. At first when unaccustomed to such a diet there is some temporary loss, but this is soon regained and more besides if needed.

Is there any difference between Swedish health bread and rye-krisp? Have been advised to use it and am wondering which would be best.
CLARA

As far as I know the only difference is that the Swedish health bread is imported and the rye-krisp is made in this country. I believe you would find either satisfactory. This is an excellent form of bread for most people, as it requires chewing and is not so subject to fermentation.

What Your FACE TELLS

OUR THOUGHTS ARE REALLY WRITTEN ON OUR FOREHEADS. What has nature written in the marvelous imprint on your face—courage or fear, sympathy or hardness, optimism or pessimism? The fixed expression of an individual is the result of the thought and emotions which have controlled his past. The fleeting or transitory expressions are written by the ideas and motions of the moment.

One may frown at the annoyance caused by a chance remark or the carelessness of a passing automobile driver, and think nothing of it, yet every time you frown you are chiseling the line in your face deeper. It is because we so seldom see the expressions which sweep over our faces that we allow some of them to rest there. If you will analyze the general expression of the human face, you will have one of the most important factors in character analysis.

Study not only the brain power of the individual as you seek to discover the qualities inherent in his nature. Study also how the reactions of the brain have been modified by concentration. Intensity of thought writes its history in the spirit of our faces.

Particularly our foreheads. The emotions also play a significant part in modifying the expression of our faces. The man or woman who easily succumbs to anger, fear, hatred, jealousy, suspicion will soon wear the mark of these emotions as illustrated.

YOUR MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

I'm not very much in favor of the "third degree" as applied to husbands and wives. Grace G. writes that she must know the truth about her husband, so she put him through the third degree, and he confessed. But, ungentle, she can make up her mind to forgive, and forget, what has she gained?

Says the Woman: Dear Patricia Lee: Some time ago I heard that my husband had been going out with another girl. I didn't believe it at first, but somehow I couldn't get it out of my mind. At first he denied it, but I kept after him until he finally admitted that he had been out with her twice and that she was to blame—that she led him on. Now while I blame my husband for being so weak-willed I do know that this girl is extremely "forward." My husband says he is sorry and promises to never see her again. He has even taken a new job to prove it, as in his former position he and this girl worked in the same office. At the same time I have lost all confidence in him. My pride is crushed and I feel that we cannot live together again. But Miss Lee, I love him so much that I am miserable away from him. Please tell me what I can do?

GRACE G. A year ago I married a very pretty girl quite a few years my junior. She is a good wife and housekeeper and loves me with all her heart. I have no complaint against her except her manner of dress. She is just 19 and her friends are the flapper type and she clings to their style of dress. At heart she is modest and sweet, but the impression she creates is just the opposite. I am sure, short, tight dresses, gay colors, too much rouge and lipstick these are her faults. I have talked myself weary—and so has my mother. We are old-fashioned in our ideas and think a married woman should dress conservatively. Perhaps I should not complain, but I am actually disgusted. When married women stop dressing like silly school girls? If they think men approve of it they are very much mistaken. Don't you think I am right? How can I bring my wife to my way of thinking?

R. W. It makes no difference what you think—or what I think—we can't institute a reform in woman's dress. There are not enough people in favor of it! And don't blame the women. It seems to me, R. W., that you are making much ado about nothing. If your wife loves you and you love her why worry over the question of dress? Why waste precious hours in arguments over such trifles? After all, your wife is just what you can do? You can do one of three things: First you can leave him and wear your heart out longing for his love; second, you can make him love you—by continually nagging him and reminding him of his misdeeds; third, you can make up your mind to forget this affair and never refer to it again as long as you live—and be happy again. Surely I don't need to tell you which is the wisest plan. Certainly you were hurt, but you won't gain a thing in the world but more misery by nursing your grievance. Your husband seriously didn't take the affair acknowledged at the time; he has acknowledged his wrong, repented, and has promised not to see this girl in arguments over such trifles again. What more can he

Q. Does a lady rise and shake hands when a gentleman is introduced to her?

A. A wife introduces her husband as "my husband" to friends as "John" to intimates, as "Mr. Smith" to servants or casual acquaintances.

Q. When bouillon is served in a cup, does one use a spoon or drink from the cup?

A. The spoon is intended merely for stirring the liquid and for testing its temperature. After several sips of the bouillon have been taken, the remainder should be drunk from the cup.

Old San Francisco

BY ALLIE LOWE MILES

SYNOPSIS

Enrico de Solano y Vasquez, proud and romantic Spaniard, claims in 1776 for King Philip of Spain the land bordering on what is now San Francisco Bay. The Vasquez hacienda is erected on the beautiful and extensive acres overlooking the bay, and life moves along in the quaint, careless manner of Old Spain. In 1843 two grandsons and their mother are the last of the proud line. The discovery of gold disturbs their calm existence.

"Gold!" gasped Don Hernandez in unexpressed exultation, smiling happily at his brother. But the head of the house replied sadly. "No, my brother, a gold rush is to be deplored. Gold awakens greed and lust—it spurs on our laborers will leave—it will mean a social upheaval!"

The youth's enthusiasm waned with his smile. He had thought only of the adventure and nothing of the disastrous consequences. But his Mother knew and sighed. "Gold and money mean so little, my sons, they cannot buy dreams, a good name and peace."

However, these fine immaterial niceties of life meant nothing to red blooded men. Practically every able bodied male in the state, thrilled with the news and prospects of gold, pulled up stakes and hit the trail to Sutter's Mill. That is, with the exception of the Spaniards, who with their usual love of lazy indolence and ease, failed to join the new progressive enterprise or soil their aristocratic fingers in gold digging.

As soon as the news was passed on by galloping messengers the gold rush became an actuality.

Unwilling to admit the menace, Senora Vasquez turned into the hacienda with her sons. Their guests were due, shortly, and they must be ready to extend every hospitality.

No sooner had they left the patio than a faithful peon came running in breathlessly and stopped before them to whisper of his great discovery. "In the stable yard, señor—Captain Stoner and his sailor men—steal your horses!"

"The fiends!" snapped Vasquez angrily.

Don Hernandez, agitated by an equal anger, leaped to his feet and raced headlong down the stairs. It was a call to arms!

"Wait, my brother," called the elder. "I am the head of the house of Vasquez! You remain with my Mother and leave weighty matters to me."

With this reminder he disappeared in the house. Hardy a moment elapsed before he returned brandishing the great sword of the Vasquez. The same splendid blade that had been plunged into San Francisco ground by their illustrious ancestor seventy-two years earlier.

Don Hernandez was crestfallen and disappointed at being denied a chance to share in the excitement and avenge their name, but obedient to the head of the family had always been the first law of Spanish life. He reluctantly remained at his Mother's side.

Coming around the building with grim determined step the elder brother halted at sight of such feverish activity in the stable yard.

A gruff, burly, bewhiskered man of forty was Captain Stoner, and he appeared as much in command of the situation as if he had been on the bridge of his ship at sea.

"You greasy swabs!" he thundered at the terrified peons, "throw some saddles on those horses' backs and tighten up the belly straps!"

They covered before this verbal lash and waited upon the impatient Captain and his sailors like helpless slaves.

Summing the last bit of his remaining strength, Vasquez lunged toward Stoner with drawn sword. His mouth, distorted with pain, opened pitifully to cry out, "A Vasquez avenges a Vasquez!" but the strain was too great and he fell tottering to the tiled floor.

One loyal and courageous little servant snatched the bride of his Master's favorite horse when he saw that Captain Stoner was about to mount and ride him away without permission.

"Spawn of the Devil!" cursed Stoner, "cast off!" and he knocked the peon backward with a cruel blow.

The helpless heap of abused humanity rolled and fell unconscious at Vasquez's feet.

"Cast off!" What does this mean?" demanded the young master, his Spanish eyes flashing with righteous fury.

"It means we've worked for you long enough," Stoner eyed his youthful employer with deadly calm. "You'll find your ship at anchor in the bay. We've resigned and are taking our pay in horses—understand?"

The sailors mounted on saddled steeds, gave mute evidence of the fact.

Like a true son of a long line of proud aristocrats, Vasquez stood his ground. "Stoner, you forget that I am head of the House of Vasquez." His eyes took on a deadly glint. "I order you to replace my property and return to your ship at once."

He waited with all the assurance of a small child who has asked a cow to give him a glass of milk and is surprised when his bidding is not immediately obeyed.

"You jellyfish!" cried Stoner in contempt, "we're going to the gold fields and you can't stop us—this is a new era—the world's turning upside down, and now you and your family glory don't mean a damn thing."

A quick intake of breath was followed by an amazed silence and Vasquez stood stunned by Stoner's defiance.

"All aboard for the gold fields, men!" signalled the Captain, and his sailors climbed into their saddles.

Vasquez suddenly regained his senses and sprang into the archway to bar their departure with his body.

"You shall not leave the Vasquez estate on stolen horses unless you ride me down." It was a grand gesture, devoid of all pretense and show—he meant it. The sun shone blindingly on the famous Vasquez sword as he held it high in his out-fung arm.

The sailors pulled in their horses to a dead stop and eyed their Captain inquiringly.

Stoner did not mount, but his mind was made up. The defiance of a romantic Spaniard was not going to alter his plans. Whipping out a pistol he fired—in cold blood—at the brave youth who was defending property and name with his very life.

A blood red spot grew on the breast of Vasquez's soft white shirt. He swayed on his feet. His left hand crept up—not to ease the pain but to stop his life's blood from oozing out until he had had a chance to prove that his eyes could still see and that his right hand was still strong and true enough to avenge the insult.

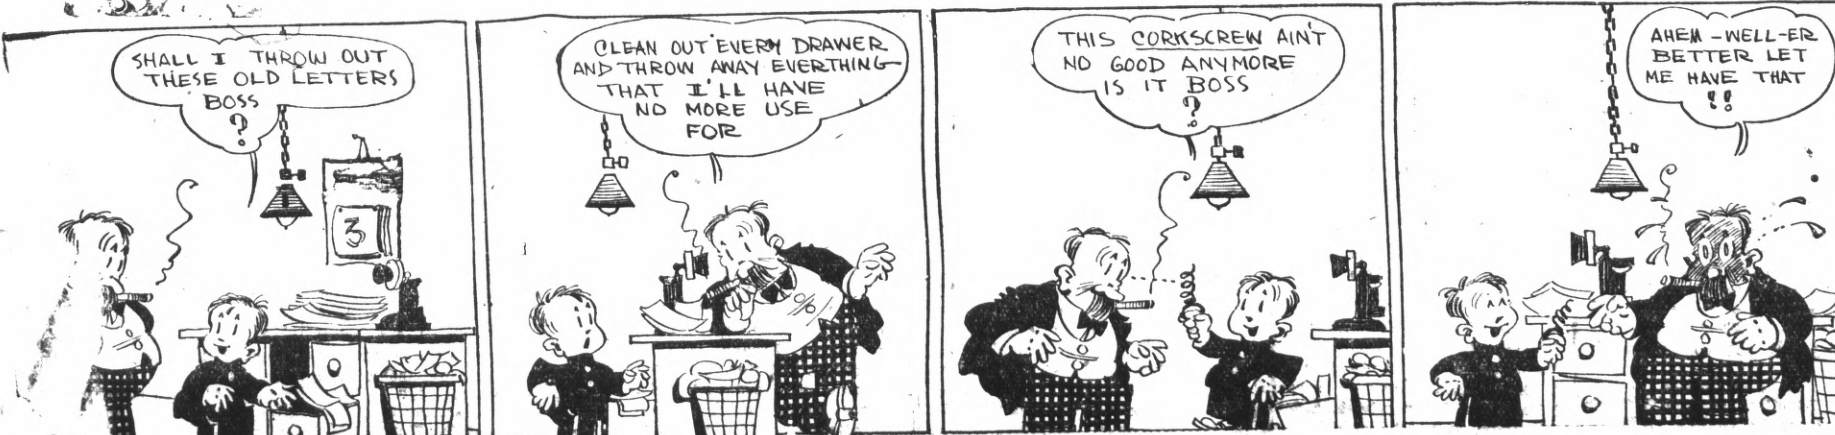

The report of Stoner's cowardly shot echoed in Senora Vasquez's heart. Instinctively she knew that it had found its mark in her son. Don Hernandez heard, it too, and without hesitancy rushed around the hacienda eager to take his place beside his brother.

Back in the stable yard the peon laborers and vaqueros were huddled together in fear and trembling, the sailors were stunned into silence, but Captain Stoner—a leech upon his big loose lips—blew through the smoking barrel of his revolver with gloating satisfaction.

Summoning the last bit of his remaining strength, Vasquez lunged toward Stoner with drawn sword. His mouth, distorted with pain, opened pitifully to cry out, "A Vasquez avenges a Vasquez!" but the strain was too great and he fell tottering to the tiled floor.

SPORTS

RICHMOND AND BERKELEY TO CLASH TODAY

Coach Ivan Hill's warriors are ready for their game with Berkeley high school today on the Berkeley field. The team has been preparing strenuously for the battle with their rivals and are anxious to overcome the defeat suffered last year.

Both sides will go into the fray minus some of their best players, but the local team's reinforcements will give them a good edge on the College City eleven.

The teams have practically the same standing according to the showing made this year. Both have won games with high scores. Berkeley's line is said to be considerably weakened while Richmond has gained over last year. Rumor has it that Berkeley's backfield will be somewhat weakened due to injuries.

Coach Hill will start the game with the following lineup: Fitzpatrick and Johnson, ends; Fisher and Schaefer, tackles; Diamantini and Neckle, guards; Jackson, center; Swenson and Scarella, halves; Williams, quarter and Baldwin full.

Result Of Big Saturday Grid Games Awaited

(By Universal Service)

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 13.—Football on the Pacific Coast has been nothing but a big bucket of upset since for this season, for which reason fans are anxiously awaiting this Saturday's games to see if any more favored teams are going to fade out of the picture.

In the first place, Stanford, 1926 champions, lost a 16-0 game from St. Mary's, a non-conference team, supposedly much weaker than Pop Warner's big red team. Came along and took the Saints down the line to a 13-0 score.

This week the stage is all set for two contests which may come out either way and which will have a lot to do with picking the ultimate winner of the coast sweepstakes. Stanford and U. S. C. tangle at Palo Alto in a game which should be a thriller if there ever was one, while California and Oregon will have it out at Portland.

Stanford and U. S. C. have put up the battle of the year on the coast for the last two seasons, and this year should prove no exception. Howard Jones, Trojan mentor, lost most of his last year's lineups, but has found plenty of heavy fast charging boys to take their places, and except for the absence of Mort Kaer, all-American half in 1926. He has all his speedy backs which made the Trojan offense so dazzling last season, when they lost the national championship by the margin of two missed conversions after touchdowns. They lost to Stanford and Notre Dame by one point and the same score in each game, 13-12.

Philadelphia Wizard Now 175-Pound Champ

ACTION-HUNGRY fight fans were treated to a great battle at Madison Square Garden Friday night, when Mike McTigue lost his mythical light-heavy crown to Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia. Here's Joe Humphries about to announce Loughran the winner, while McTigue, cognizant of defeat, looks down on his advisers in his corner.

Contra Costa Golf Club To Improve Fairways Of Course

The Contra Costa Golf Club is a small membership club as golf clubs go, but the difficult nine-hole course near Pacheco, said by professionals who have played it to be one of the sportiest in the west, is producing golfers of no mean ability, and who are turning in scores which rank with the best of 'em.

Proof of this is found in the sensational score turned in by George Alljan of Crockett last Sunday when he stroked the nine holes in 38, two over par and turned in a total of 82 for the 18 holes, tying the course record established by Father A. J. Carroll on May Day. The course, particularly on Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 7 and 8, offers natural hazards that require accurate stroking to avoid the player getting into trouble that costs him many costly shots to come back into the clear and it is these hazards that are making real golfers of the Contra Costa club players.

While the one well of water on the club property has been able to meet the requirements of water to maintain all nine of the grass greens and keep them in splendid condition during the long dry summer months, the bringing in of a second well of equal or greater flow than the one now in use is welcomed by the playing members of the club who are now looking forward to the coming spring and summer when it is hoped to have at least a part of the fairways in grass.

When the natural grass growth is out in the spring it is expected that sufficient water will be available to retain a part of the green playing area and prevent a recurrence of cracking of the ground which made playing uncertain this summer and into which great cracks many balls disappeared. This was overcome in part by scarifying the fairways. The grounds committee next summer will concentrate its attention first to keeping green or at least keeping the ground roughened for more certain playing on No. 1, No. 2, No. 3 and No. 8, fairways where golfers encounter their greatest difficulties at present.

Cal. Frosh Play 250 Artillery

(By Universal Service)
BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 13.—The University of California Freshmen will prove the entertainment in the California Memorial Stadium Saturday afternoon when they meet the strong 250th Coast Artillery team.

The preliminary will be between the second freshman team and Marin Union Junior College of Kentfield.

Manager John Sindelich and his fast Twenty-third street Market baseball team will play the J. J. Kreigg team for the first game of the mid-winter league, next Sunday.

The lineup is as follows: Mott, c; Phillips, 2b; Viano, 1b; Morozza, ss; Taylor, p; Miggall, 3b; Piolo, c; Klatt, rf; Mattern, lf; and Frankie, fielder.

Ed Sullivan's SPORT WHIRL

TOMMY LOUGHRAN'S SHIP COMES IN

After three years of evasion on the part of three light heavyweight champions, they placed the light heavyweight championship on the line at Madison Square Garden and Tommy Loughran, blue-eyed Irish giant from Philadelphia, won it from here to Ritten Street, Philadelphia, the block on which he was born 24 years ago.

While the new champion waved his response to the terrific din of his admirers, the band from St. Monica's Parish hall, Philly, attired in natty white uniforms, played appropriately enough: "For he lives down in our alley."

That band from Loughran's former school had waited three long years to pour those notes out of the slips, triangles and cymbals. They had waited while Delaney, under-tracked Longport, they waited some more while Paul Berenbach devised ways and means of ducking a meeting and they had patiently practiced while Delaney turned it over to old Mike McTigue.

All the post-up emotions of those three weary years and all the cumulative harmony developed in three years' apprenticeship to the flats and sharps of the musical scale were poured into those horns. It went in sweet and, unlike the stage version, it came out sweeter.

The last notes of that song were floating on the air as Loughran, who lives down in their alley, was swept to his dressing room on the shoulders of frenzied rooters.

Tommy, chasing a rainbow for three years, had finally heard Joe Humphries bellow:

McTigue WAS MAKING LAST STAND

When I say that Champion Tommy Loughran won his title from here to Ritten Street, Philadelphia, I do not mean that distance as it is flown by a crow.

He won it here to Ritten Street, Philadelphia, and he traveled all the detours.

McTigue, master of the left hand, accounted by experts to be the greatest defensive boxer in the world today, found that his knowledge of boxing was vague and inaccurate. He found himself up against a kid who circled that ring with the light step of a ghost, and who threw lefts and rights into McTigue's face and body until old Mike was bewildered.

McTigue, making his last stand, encountered a youngster who knew all that old Mike knew and more besides.

Mike threw that right hand in desperation as the fight progressed, but he never found anything to pin it to.

Loughran weaved and parried, slipped leads that were anticipated before they were fully under way and in return clobbered McTigue's left eye and punctured his body with vicious blows that gradually wore the veteran into submission.

RIPPED STOMACH OUT OF HIM

McTigue knew as early as the fourth round that the path to the light heavyweight championship was through his stomach.

As early as then, Loughran had started ripping Mike's middle to pieces with cruel punches that made McTigue wince in pain.

Past 35, McTigue knew that his body could not stand up under that bruising attack. So he did the logical thing, he complained that Loughran was hitting him low.

Twice protest might have affected a younger fighter, but Loughran, for all of his youth, is ringworm. In eight years of fighting Loughran had piled up a fistic education that rivaled McTigue's own knowledge.

Tommy kept directing his fire at McTigue's body and every round saw Mike slowing up from the beating.

Loughran had tipped Stripling to pieces with the same tactics, and he found another victim last night.

But Mike was game. He took it all and then came on in the fifteenth round to stage a sport that had the gallery on its seats.

It was spectacular, but not effective.

THE OLD MASTER GETS A LESSON

It has been a long time since veteran ring followers were treated to the masterful exhibition which Loughran flashed against McTigue.

They had heard, most of them, how Loughran had toyed with Dempsey in the training camp at Atlantic City.

They had read how he tied Dempsey in knots and handled him as a mother might handle an unruly child.

They knew that he had gotten up from the floor after Tunney dropped him for a nine count and held Tunney even the rest of the way. They knew that he had out-boxed and out-fought Carpenter.

Loughran, against McTigue, drew on all of his uncanny skill. He picked sly punches out of the air; he smothered McTigue's dreaded right hand, and he made McTigue look old and impotent in the clinches.

He took the master boxer of the game and gave him a lesson in the many art of self-defense.

He so completely baffled McTigue that old Mike reached beyond the book and uncovered some tricks that are not sanctioned in polite Queensberry circles.

"I should have had another fight before meeting him," said Mike. And that other fight should distinctly not have been with Loughran.

GOOD LUCK TO YOU, TOMMY!!!

No one will begrudge Tommy Loughran his title. He is a fine boy, unspoiled and unaffected.

His make-up is best reflected in his persistent refusal to part with the services of Joe Smith, his manager and boyhood pal. "We started together and if I make money Joe will share it with me," was Tommy's answer to all propositions to tie up with a new pilot.

Loughran has his title and I sincerely wish him luck and prosperity with it. He deserves everything he can get out of it. "For he lives down in our alley."

And that alley is lined with a great crowd of regular guys.

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction without starvation diet or burdensome exercise, often at a very rapid rate and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of all of the troublesome symptoms which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overstoutness, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of superfluous fat.
If you are over stout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

Water Distribution Bonds Get Endorsement Of Labor

Labor is on record for the water distribution bonds as a result of the unanimous endorsement by the Central Labor Council, it was announced through Wm. Spooner, Secretary, and George Durand, of that body.

Endorsement came following an outline of the project by Louis Bartlett, former director of the East Bay Municipal Utility District, who declared that the issue is one of lower taxes and that every person living in the East Bay cities can benefit financially by helping to bring about the passage of the bonds on November 1.

The meeting was heavily attended and marked by enthusiasm in favor of completing the people's water project by voting to bring about complete municipal ownership at the forthcoming election.

Bartlett outlined the plan as follows: "If I own a home assessed at $4,000, I must pay $9.20 in taxes to the Municipal Utility District this year. Next year and for many years thereafter I shall have to pay about $20.00, that is, if the $26,000,000 bond issue is voted down. I can save the $9.20 this year, and the $20 a year hereafter by voting for the water bonds.

"How does this happen?" "Four years ago the people voted $39,000,000 to bring in a water supply from the Mokelumne River a hundred miles away, to avert a water famine, and get plenty of pure mountain water.

"That water will soon be here and, unless we buy or build a distributing system, we will not be able to sell it. But the interest on the bonds will have to be paid, and that will require my $9.20 this year, and $20.00 next year in taxes on a $4,000 home.

"If we vote the water distribution bonds, however, we shall be able to sell the water at the same price now charged by the East Bay Water Company, and make enough out of that so that this bond interest will be paid, and nothing be paid in taxes for water.

"Voting these water bonds is a cheap way of getting rid of these taxes."

Other recent endorsement by influential organizations include Glenview Improvement Club, Piedmont Avenue Improvement Club, Men's Club of Richmond, Kiwanis Club of San Leandro, Alameda Real Estate Board, Fruitvale Boulevard Merchants Association, Fruitvale Garden Farms Improvement Club, Thousand Oaks Improvement Club of Berkeley, and Seventy-third Avenue and East 14th Street Club.

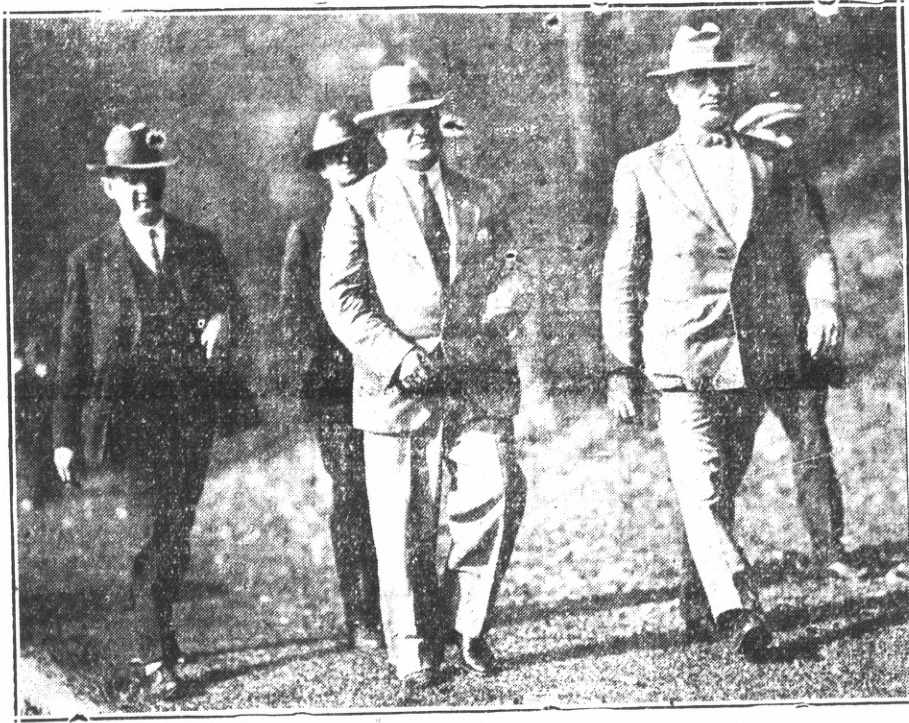

Plans are going forward for the Oakland Forum meeting next Monday night at which all sides of the proposal will be presented in a symposium of talks by Dr. George C. Pardee, President of the East Bay Municipal Utility District, Dr. David P. Barrows, Director, Arthur P. Davis, Chief Engineer, and James Boyer, Director. The meeting, according to Miss Annie Florence Brown, President of the Forum, will help to carry out the Forum's policy of presenting all sides of important public questions.

was given "exclusive sales rights for the western states and Hawaii. He asked $50,000 for alleged failure of the California people to place the name, "Clay-Glow Tile company," on products sold. Richardson, J. W. Hisslop and A. C. Meyers, formed a partnership in 1922, it was declared and in 1923 Richardson purchased the interest of his partners and secured a sales contract. He charged that since the latter year no accounting had been made of the commissions declared to be due.

HOLD CONTRACT ENDED
The defense, according to counsel, based its case on an agreement executed in February, 1923, terminating the sales contract between the Richardson and Hisslop interests in July, 1922.

As a result of the decision yesterday, the plaintiffs are believed to be considering an appeal.

L. I. Aviatix Plans Flight

flash of "Haldmann and 'L. I. K.' kept crowds in anxiety at the flying fields near London and Paris where it was hourly expected the "American Girl" might land.

There was a sense of relief in all quarters when the slow moving Barendrecht, Rotterdam tanker radioed in English to the steamer Bayonna that the flyers had been picked up out of the ocean somewhere off the Azores. The Bayonna relayed the message to the Van Ommen company at Rotterdam owners of the Barendrecht. The Van Ommen sent it to Le Bourget flying field, Paris, and from there the world learned of it in a few minutes.

DUE SATURDAY
A message from Rotterdam tonight relays a message from the Barendrecht saying, "Due in Azores Saturday morning. Landing aviators."

NO DESTROYER TO AID
Washington reports indicated that the navy department was not prepared to take any chivalrous action in rushing to the aid of Miss Elder until her definite plans were known. Expectations that a destroyer from the "American" flotilla at Gibraltar would be ordered at once to take up the chase of the Dutch oil boat were not fulfilled up to a late hour.

In formation as to the actual circumstances attending the landing is meagre. Reports have it that the ship was forced down while repairing a broken oil pipe, and that it was destroyed by fire as it landed by the Dutch tanker, Mrs. Sarah Elder, mother of the girl, received a radiogram saying that she was saved. Further reports on the landing have not been forthcoming.

"The best mattress I have been able to buy"
GRANT D. MILLER.

While you are buying your beds, springs or comforters and blankets at Mulkey's, don't forget that "Slumber-Wings" is on display and is a product of our own sanitary factory.

One user said: "I have heard of making mattresses over, but in securing your 'Slumber-Wings,' you have made me over."

Another says: "Slumber-Wings' has healed my lame back."

By all means see a "Slumber-Wings" before you buy any mattress. The cost is small... especially when the results obtained mean a saving in other respects.
